Parliament Must Decide Vital Issue, Peace Or War

Men and Arms — Before and After
They Train Hard To Become Soldiers

The two black lines in German territory are parts or arms of the Siegfried line, sometimes merging but at other times miles apart as around the Saar basin. Notice, too, that some of the Saar territory protrudes in front of the line. This is part of the attack taken in by French troops who have penetrated the basin from bases at Metz and Nancy.

French Forces Take German Forest

Richest Deposits
Of Coal Taken
In French Raid

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Military observers said tonight the French army attacking Germany's western frontier was in possession of approximately 200 square miles of German territory, including 30 square miles of the Warndt forest, west of Forbach. The forest covers one of the richest coal deposits of the Saar basin.

Communique number eleven, issued this morning, said: "Activity in the course of the night by our first line land forces: The great forest of Warndt, west of Forbach, is mostly in our hands. It was found filled with evidences of destruction and traces of all sorts. Our aviation continues active in support of land forces."

An earlier communique said French tanks and infantry units had reached the Saar river in Germany on a left flank attack against the left bank. The latter communique indicated steady French progress toward the rich Saar basin. Forbach is on the northern flank of the French line where tanks and infantry were reported to have reached the Saar river. The reported capture of Warndt forest tanks further served to straighten the French line which jutted back into France like a huge knob.

A French spokesman, however, pointed out operations on the western front so far, including the advance in the forest, had the character of "preliminary" clearing up of approaches to the Siegfried line. The official journal informed.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Canada will stand shoulder to shoulder with Great Britain in the war against Nazi Germany or find another government, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons Friday.

The prime minister said that his government believes that a complete surrender would not be necessary, or effective, adding: "No such measure will be introduced by the present administration."

Concluding his address last night to the emergency war session of parliament, Mr. Mackenzie King said the government had announced its policy and the question of peace or war remains for parliament to decide.

"That question is not decided yet," he declared. "The government has made its decision as to what its policy is. But it is for the honorable members of this house to say whether they stand by that policy."

OUTLINED POLICY

Conforming to his settled policy of leaving the issue of Canada's participation in war to parliament, the prime minister yesterday outlined his policy and asked the house to support him in it.

He gave no indication he had any doubt of the decision of the house, and was greeted with applause from all sides. A few minutes before the house heard Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion, Conservative leader, declare himself for participation in the war and pledge his support to the government in its policies.

John Blackmore, Social Credit leader, bespoke his party's wish to give full Canadian support to Great Britain. But J. S. Woodsworth, leader of the United Farmers, said his party would support the government.

Battling Poles Still Hold Warsaw

BUDAPEST, Sept. 9.—The Warsaw radio tonight announced that the Poles still held Warsaw. It said that although the Polish capital was "under constant bombing, we will not yield."

"We will hold out to the very last," said the broadcast. BUDAPEST, Sept. 9.—Rival broadcasts, both speaking on the Warsaw radio station wavelengths, said the outside world take its choice today whether the Polish capital was in Polish or German hands.

One, speaking Polish with a German accent, said Warsaw was being entered by German forces. The other denied the capital had fallen. The German announcer told the populace the city was surrounded, that all communications were broken, and that "nerves and tanks are closed and will remain closed."

Premier Clarifies Canada's Position In Regard To War

By THOMAS WAYLING
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin
OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Canada's war parliament Friday discussed Canada's undeclared war. The House of Commons the debate on the Speech from the Throne made it clear that Canada has not yet declared war.

If the Dominion parliament does not declare war in other words, it does not endorse the war preparations of the present government. It must find a new government.

Prime Minister said the situation which has been puzzling the public and the country since the

Highlights Of Premier King's Speech

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Highlights of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's speech in the commons Friday.

Parliament is here to decide the matter of peace and war. The government has made its decision as to what its policy is. But it is for the honorable members of this house to say whether they stand by that policy.

Measures for the training and discipline of trained air personnel as the most immediate and effective co-operation with Great Britain will be proposed by the government.

The present government believes that conscription of men for overseas service will not be a necessary or an effective step. No such measure will be introduced by the present administration.

If the house will not support us in these policies it will have to find another government.

The primary task and responsibility of the people of Canada is the defence and security of Canada.

Professing itself and will be rigidly controlled.

The question of an expeditionary force or units for overseas is particularly one of "side-reaching significance" which will require the fullest examination.

North America would not be so pillar.

PARLIAMENT TO SIT SATURDAY UNTIL 11 P. M.

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—The House of Commons sits today but will not sit Sunday. Ordinarily the House does not meet on Saturday, but in a drive toward an early completion of the special war session it will meet during regular week-day hours today, from 9 to 4 p.m., E.D.T., and from 8 to 11 p.m. (M.S.T.).

As no complete information is available on the number of members who intend to speak in the debate on the Speech from the Throne, it is impossible to say whether a vote will be held tonight.

J. T. Thorne (Lib., Sask.), who in the past has opposed defence expenditures, speaks first, and later M. J. Colwell (C.C.F., British Columbia) will speak. Some French Canadian Liberals who in the past have urged a policy of isolationism will speak, but how many remain to be seen.

Canada Should Limit Aid To Britain To Economic Assistance

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Canada's assistance to Great Britain and her allies in the war against Nazi Germany should be limited to economic aid and should not include conscription of men-power nor an expeditionary force, in the opinion of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation.

In a statement of policy prepared for delivery in the House of Commons today by M. J. Colwell, national president and member for Riverview-Biggar, the party and Canada now is in a struggle which might involve the survival of democratic institutions and in the case of the allies lay a hope of building European peace on a more secure foundation.

CANADA WILL DECLARE WAR IF ADDRESS ADOPTED

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons today that if the address in reply to the speech from the throne is adopted the government will "immediately take steps for formal proclamation of a state of war existing between Canada and the German Reich."

Adoption of the address, moved yesterday, would be considered as approval of the government's policy which is immediate and of immediate participation in the war, the prime minister said.

Mr. King's statement was made on the orders of the day soon after the house met this afternoon. Debate on the address was resumed immediately.

Canada's Warbirds May Get Chance to Spread Their Wings

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—Canada's warbirds may get a chance to spread their wings in European skies with Britain and her allies in the new war against German aggression.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has suggested to parliament that one of the best ways in which this country could immediately aid the British would be by dispatch of "trained air personnel overseas."

There are comparatively few first Great War veterans still on the active list of the Royal Canadian Air Force.

No German Ships Now On Seas

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The ministry of information said today that "there are practically no German merchant ships on the high seas."

The ministry said the task of "sweeping all enemy shipping from the seas" would be continued.

More than 600 men have enlisted in units of the Edmonton Garrison since recruiting commenced last Monday. At the same time Lt.-Col. E. The first church parade of the newly-enlisted men and their first public parade since enlistment will be held on Sunday morning.

BERLIN NOW PUTS FLOUR ON RATIONS

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9.—The Berlin correspondent of De Telegraaf today reported that rationing of flour had begun in Germany. (Last week it was announced there was no need to ration flour because stocks were on hand for a full year.)

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Informed British military quarters today cautioned the public that stories of disclosures in Germany may be only "sneaking thinking."

An expert said: "Make no mistake, this is going to be a long war and a big war, and we are convinced that Germany will not win. It will have nothing else left for her to do."

The boards will act throughout Sunday in an effort to keep the number of men flowing into the units as uniform as possible. Each unit is ordered on the average of 40 men a day, so with four boards functioning, this means 160 men a day are issued.

Finishing touches are being applied to the 21 units now under construction for the troops being enlisted and these will be ready for occupation. The huts are being well built and will be completed by the 15th.

The Oil Question

Iran has declared war against Germany, ordered the German minister to leave the country and looked up German nationals who are suspected of trying to aid the Nazis. This does not sound as important as it is, Iran being a small country and remote from the scene of conflict.

But Mesopotamia, as it used to be called, is a rich oil field. The action of its Government means that this vital fuel will not be drawn upon to drive the Fuehrer's airplanes, submarines and tanks, but will be available as and in whatever quantities needed to Britain and its allies. In these days of motorized fighting machines, in the air and on land and water, an accessible supply of oil is an asset of first consequence to a country at war.

In the absence of a pipeline to sea-board, Iraq oil is more important to the fighting forces of Britain and France in the present crisis than the great oil deposits in Alberta.

It Is Not Fair

Victoria, B. C., reports forty applications made there in one day for marriage licenses, whereas the average for a month is about 45. The same phenomenon is noted in other centres across the Dominion; the registrar at Edmonton having the novel experience of finding eager couples for permits waiting on the doorstep when he opens the office in the morning. Matrimonial records, it appears, are going down like nine-pins everywhere in Canada before the wave of reaction from the impact of war.

This, of course, is a find for the humorists, and they are making the most of it, the general drift of the jokes being that Herr Hitler is proving an able assistant to Dan Cupid. But another and less generous suspicion is finding expression; that young men are marrying in hope that they can exempt them from military service. Some prefer, it is being said, to marry and go to relief rather than stay single and go to war.

This cynicism is not deserved. Young Canadians did not fail to respond when they were called for service before, and they will not fail now. Being married was not made an excuse then, and will not be made an excuse now. What the rush to the altar means is that the young men, instead of leaving sweethearts to fend for themselves prefer to leave wives who will be provided for in their absence. The foresight is altogether to their credit and should not be misconstrued.

Buy As Usual

One war measure has met with instant and enthusiastic approval in all parts of Canada; the setting up of a federal price-control board to prevent profiteering. From all sections of the country have come urgings that the machinery for this purpose be completed as quickly as possible, coupled with proposals that provinces and municipalities create local bodies to co-operate with the board.

If this reaction from the public discloses a lively suspicion that control is or will be required, the feeling may be traced back to the experiences in the world war; and it also discloses a nation-wide resolve that history is not to be allowed to repeat in this matter. The board, it is plain, cannot get on the job and ready for action any too soon to suit the consuming public, and any against whom it may have to take action in the courts will get little popular sympathy.

A point not to be overlooked is that the consumer can himself do considerable to prevent price soaring. If housewives are the country over run to the stores, as is possible, coupled with proposals that provinces and municipalities create local bodies to co-operate with the board.

If this reaction from the public discloses a lively suspicion that control is or will be required, the feeling may be traced back to the experiences in the world war; and it also discloses a nation-wide resolve that history is not to be allowed to repeat in this matter. The board, it is plain, cannot get on the job and ready for action any too soon to suit the consuming public, and any against whom it may have to take action in the courts will get little popular sympathy.

Closed Markets

Canada and South Africa were not among the countries named by President Roosevelt in his recent proclamation of United States neutrality. For the reason that these Dominions had not at that time broken off diplomatic relations with Germany. The suggestion thus arose in some quarters that, if Canada should for a time refrain from declaring war, arms and other munitions could still be imported from the United States into Canada and shipped thence to Britain and France.

But the President's first proclamation specifically stated it was illegal for a citizen of the United States to send "abroad" an armed vessel intended to be used against a belligerent or to be sold to a belligerent.

Secretary Hull explained airplanes, guns, ammunition, and all other classes of recognized war supplies are prohibited from export under the same conditions. Without such restriction, United States neutrality would be little more than a pretence, since it would be easy enough to arrange for shipment of these classes of munitions to any belligerent state by a round-about route through another neutral country.

There is no way by which Britain and France can now obtain these supplies legally. Putting the case the other way; there is no way by which United States manufacturers of munitions can legally sell to the belligerent countries. If the stocks they have already accumulated are to be disposed of, contracts filled, and advantage taken of the enormous market in prospect, Congress will have to revise the neutrality law on the lines proposed by the President.

It is assumed that the pressure for revision is intense, and increasing.

Editorial Notes

Albertans will not be envious because an extensive deposit of dinosaur relics has been found in southern Saskatchewan. Rather they will hope that collectors for museums and institutions of learning will draw on the new source of supply, and leave what remains of the Alberta deposit of these souvenirs of the time when the prairies were a swamp.

Reports from Lieben that an enemy submarine fired on the crew of a torpedo-boat ship while they were getting into the boats disposed of the theory that the shelling of the Athenia passengers and crew was the personal doing of the commander of the U-boat, and not part of the Nazi code of maritime warfare. Commanders of Nazi submarines cannot all be inhuman enough to do such things without orders.

The Passing Show

By J. K. COWPER

There are parts of this Empire where it is difficult to believe a ghastly war is raging by land and sea.

Down in the little waterfront colony in which I am staying, life goes on as usual. People are overhauling boats or departing on pleasure trips.

Roofing in a new bathroom addition to the houseboat, my helper and I were joined by two dear little girls on the next houseboat. All afternoon they played mother to their dolls, dressing them, feeding them, and putting them to sleep. Yet innocents such as these are being offered as victims to the insensate ambition of a mono-maniac.

Taking tea at a friend's house, two smart, handsome young fellows from the Air Force told of being called up for duty. One wished a girl present to listen on his "wing." "You may be sprouting new wings before long," she pithily remarked in what was not the happiest of remarks. Another youth told of being informed at his office that the firm could dispense with his services and procure a man of past-military age to take his place. He took the hint.

Like many another, the alarm clock in my brain wakened me at 2:55 a.m. last Sunday to get the London radio announcement that Britain was at war. It must be helpful if some of the clergy listened in to the news before entering the pulpit. A lady at dinner told of being addressed by a home guard on the morning of his going to the front. He left the place of worship a newboy run up with an "extra" announcing that war had begun.

Nothing like working together on a roof for men to exchange confidences. My helper Jack—what his real name is I don't know, but he was called Jack—came as a youth to come and build up the great chimney for the house I lived part of my time in Alberta, gave me some incidents of his life as a home guard.

PACKED GRUB FOR 300 MILES

From Edmonton, 1912, to the front in France, when he had money to buy with. Making part of the journey in a raincoat, he found his 50-pound pack of food caked in the rain, so that he got a mere pot of jam and four loaves of bread at the end. I don't wonder that he quit and sought work in a B.C. logging camp where meals are good and he can get a good wage.

What cruelty and folly to bring willing men from the other side of the world, and settle them 392 miles away from a home of their own, that the trip could only be made in winter time when the musk was frozen.

You don't have to be a Methodist to enjoy "Son of Sussana" by Mrs. G. E. Hildebrand. Though it's about the Revival of Religion by John Wesley and his brother Charles in the early nineteenth century, the story is so good that it warms the heart and the stomach.

HUMAN SIDE OF JOHN WESLEY

Yet it was from the tenderness of virgin love in his youth and the passion of love in his maturity that the Puritan crusader, his eyes fixed on the far shore, that swept like a fire through England and into America to relieve mankind of the fear of a God who would punish in hell fire all technical offenders.

Sussana was Wesley's mother. She endured a painful, ailing, clerical husband. Though she bore him eighteen children—John and Charles were the fifth and eighth—she bore the impress of her spirit upon them so that John Wesley was as much a warped slave to his spiritual father as was D. L. Lawrence to his. Mrs. Harrison, with keen, feminine insight, traces the tortuous mind of the young child to his early love, yet fearful to take to wife. There are the makings of a dozen novels in this study of the religious life.

Had all this torture of soul to be undergone to produce the Methodist Revival? Then, truly, God moves in a mysterious way His wonders to perform. John Wesley deserves Heaven in his future life; he got plenty of the other plane while he was here on earth.

HE "STAYED PUT"

One of the countless friends of Dr. Robert E. Speer was talking with him about his retirement from the senior secretaryship of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education at least, I have stayed put for forty-one years," said Dr. Speer. All through his brilliant life, other opportunities for service have beckoned. He has been a member of a dozen colleges, has been a president. But he has remained steadfast to the task which he has chosen to do in his life. So he has become a unique and inimitable world influence.

Just "staying put"—plugging away at the one task throughout a lifetime is a quality which our restless, changeable age sorely needs. Housewives who dream of "careers"; discontented men who chafe under monotonous jobs; and young men who think "success" may be found in some other place or calling—all these need to learn the Pauline lesson of contentment.

Deliver us from restless desires, our Father. Teach us to build strongly and to live greatly in the place where Thou hast appointed us. So shall we learn Thy peace, Amen.

Nothing so much prevents our being natural as the desire of appearing so.—Rochester, N.Y.

How often in the course of human events has one man, or a few men, changed the course of history. ... He was rewarded with contempt, official indifference and personal animosity. Such was the fate of Paul de Chomedy, Seigneur de Maisonneuve, who, had he not been a Frenchman, would have been a great man. ... He died in 1642, directed by a Divine mission, founded Ville Marie, now the great city of Montreal. For 22 years after that historic day, annually remembered by Montrealers, Maisonneuve had directed the destiny of the infant colony, had defended it from Iroquois attacks, at the risk of his own life, having severed his hand from a falling tree, and installing in his little band of colonists faith in God and confidence in the future.

Then, as an often in the case of others, came intrigues, jealous of Maisonneuve's popularity, eager to reap where he had sown and to graft for themselves and their companions, even if the colonists starved or froze.

Governor de Meulles lent him aid to the grangers. He had Maisonneuve recalled to France in 1664. No direct charges of malfeasance were made, but the bosses at Quebec had more friends at court than had Maisonneuve, who was kept for five long years in the Bastille. ... He was formally released to return to his duties in 1668. A year later, on the same date, he died, of a broken heart, the recipient of charity, while those who had removed him from his great adventure were gathering in their spoils. Yet he is remembered, and will always be, while those who conspired against him are but names known across by the deliverer into history.

The grain of seed sown by Paul de Chomedy, Seigneur de Maisonneuve, has already produced its harvest in the course of years before the story was recalled, but who would then have foreseen the mighty Montreal of today, with its population of close to a million, the greatest French-speaking city in North America?

I wonder if anyone ever lays a wreath of laurel on Maisonneuve's monument at the Hotel d'Armes, Montreal, on the anniversary of his death? If not, now would be a good time to begin.

Albany Beacon: Hitler has not been proved invincible. Even Napoleon had his Waterloo. Chiefly because he refused to listen to the advice we can stay out.

Memphis Commercial Appeal: The ultimate hope of the American lies not in what England, France and Poland accomplish on the battlefield, but what is accomplished by this nation after the war is done.

New York Daily News: We hope we will all remain sane and sane. ... Mr. Roosevelt may do some things that Americans have not approved, but he has been chosen by the people and we must give him support.

Cleveland Press: In so far as we can help without becoming involved, okay. But I advise every action by which we do in the line of neutrality will be hard.

New York Sun: Never again can we be letting peace be the horrible, fantastic nightmare Hitler has been exercising.

Little Rock Post: The first liner has been sunk. Others will follow, also with Americans on board. They will have to "ride things through" and avoid war hysteria.

Buffalo Courier-Express: This second world war is distinctly our business. ... Britain and France and Poland go down before Hitler, we must eventually face a choice between war and abasement to our primacy in the western world.

New York World-Telegram which had previously said the country would have to choose between the mud of neutrality they wanted in Europe said: Our greatest contribution will come through staying out, not mixing in through helping in.

Students Offered Many Advantages By Music Teachers

Opportunities Are Presented Edmontonians of Obtaining First Class Instruction—Mentors Attain Widespread Success

Music—the greatest of the arts—has long since ceased to be a luxury and is now regarded as a necessity. It is a necessity both in the matter of entertainment and education. Accomplishment in music today is looked upon as part of a first-class education. Music accomplishment is a card of introduction anywhere in the world and the greater the accomplishment, the greater the appreciation by others.

To obtain a music education, teachers are necessary. To choose the correct, or most suitable teacher is a matter that concerns all those contemplating lessons.

Personality of the teacher and methods adopted may make all the difference between the success and failure of the student.

There are in Edmonton many excellent teachers and a glance over this and the next page of The Bulletin will show that the musical education of the child may safely be left in their hands.

PIANO CLASS SUCCESSFUL IN CITY SCHOOLS

Splendid Work Will Be Continued Throughout Current Year

The piano classes which begin again this week in the Edmonton Public schools next week, are an excellent musical training for the beginner and second year music students. The several different subjects necessary for a thorough training in piano performance are all taught in the piano class method. Ear-training is taught in the very first lesson and all lessons following with the pupils listening, singing the use of musical games and of relative and later absolute pitch. Rhythmic training gives the pupils the understanding of the importance of time in music by listening to accented beats, marching, clapping, rhythmic instruments used in the rhythm bands and so on. The class is taught the ability to denote different types of time-signatures by ear as well as correct rhythmic sense. The theoretical work taught from blackboard and given out as hand-out while one member of the class is at the piano being taught separately by the teacher, gives the students a knowledge of the construction of music and the ability to define its many different symbols, besides probably later being able to compose their own small compositions. Sight-reading, right-reading, memorizing piano parts and playing hand exercises to develop the different parts of piano technique are taught by the piano and away from it, besides relaxation exercises and the use of the piano as a tool for the second year classes in which the piano is necessary for correct piano technique. This method of teaching all the parts of the piano is used by competent teachers of the Edmonton Public Schools. The class, who hold qualified certificates. For the beginner pupil it is a thorough training for the first two years of study after which they are ready for private instruction.

many fine attempts were won by students of this school in festival competitions and conservatory examinations.

For instance, Mary Brownlee won the concerto class event at the Alberta Musical Festival at Calgary in May at which Arthur Benjamin, conductor of the orchestra, was the adjudicator. Among the many winners at the Edmonton and district festival were: Mrs. J. R. Carruthers, who won the piano class, while the Toronto Conservatory Alumnae scholarship and the silver medal for the highest standing in Grades I to IV in the Toronto Conservatory examinations also were won by pupils of this school.

MRS. J. R. CARRUTHERS
Teacher of piano and theory. Mrs. J. R. Carruthers is now forming her classes for the 1939-1940 season and during the summer a splendid list of successes won last year, her students are scheduled to win many more awards this season. One of the outstanding features of Mrs. Carruthers' classes is that she claims—having always had 100 per cent success.

Some of her pupils have already advanced far along the road to the highest and she is rapidly advancing them in a rapid upward effort this season.

PALESTINE HAS MUCH FINE MUSIC

The Palestine Symphony Orchestra has recently concluded its third season of concerts in spite of the deep depression in the country, the season proved such a success that it had to be extended. At the end of the usual ten subscription concerts a Bach-Beethoven festival was arranged with Dr. Hermann Scherchen, conductor of the last subscription series, directing the two Beethoven concertos. The G major concerto played by Stefan Askheim, the "Eroica" symphony and the Ninth, given in collaboration with the Palestine Quartet under Fiedrich Ben-Tov.

The Bach evening included the world premiere of a new arrangement of Johann Sebastian Bach's "Art of the Fugue" reviewed here earlier and of his Double Concerto in D minor played by young violinists of the orchestra.

Hermann Scherchen, the well-known Continental conductor, was a newcomer to this country. He was in immediate contact with the Palestine orchestra in the performance of Bach's B minor suite for flute and strings in the first subscription concert under his baton.

The same programs also contained Bruckner's Fourth symphony (the "Romantic") and violin concerto. In Tel-Aviv this was the second concert by the Italian Cantastabile Tel Aviv, with Andrea Weingerber as soloist in Jerusalem, Rudolph

Several Ballroom and Specialty Dancing Academies Available for Those Seeking Culture In This Line

An ideal medium for young ladies who desire to learn all the social graces is the dancing lessons, which have long been included in the necessary education. Lending grace and ease of movement, it is not only an aid to popularity, but the means toward self-assurance so essential for the growing girl, going through the difficult uncertain stages of adolescence.

For those who are more seriously minded, and wish to take up tap dancing, aerobics and the other more strenuous or "show" dances, there are many well-qualified teachers waiting to offer them their art.

Modernization of the older types of dancing are now in vogue, according to Mrs. Mary Spankie, of the Spankie School of Dancing, who recently returned from the 8th annual convention of the Dancing Masters of America, at the Hotel Walk in New York. Miss Magoon was visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. A. Hall, in London, when last word of the disaster was received. ## Organizer

WALTER HUNTER, of the Canadian Corps Association who is organizing a boys' team, drum and bugle band for sons of ex-servicemen.

NEW BOYS' BAND HAS SUCCESSFUL FIRST MEETING

Boys' drum and bugle band was organized at a meeting held Friday night in the old fire hall on 98 street, under auspices of the Canadian Corps Association.

There were 27 boys enrolled in the band, their average 15 years, practically being 14 to 16 years old.

Walter Hunter, organizer, said:

"Of these 27 boys about 24 of them are the same age, so they should look pretty smart in their uniforms," Mr. Hunter said. "We will have room for a few more boys, especially if they play."

"Our first meeting was a success," Mr. Hunter said. About 75 per cent of the boys knew how to play and we had a drill and practice. About 15 of their dads, all ex-servicemen, were present and they gave the boys a big hand."

Practice meetings will be held Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings in the old fire hall, Mr. Hunter said. Membership is limited to sons of ex-servicemen and their fathers need not be members of veterans' organizations.

TWO CYCLISTS INJURED WHEN HIT BY AUTOS

Frances Braden and Fred Loughlin Are Victims—One Driver Held

Two cyclists were injured, one of them severely, when they were struck by automobiles operated by what police described as hit and run drivers on 104 Avenue within a 15-minute period Friday night. Police have arrested a man whom they claim was responsible for one of the accidents.

Frances Braden, 16, of 1147 B Street, is in the Royal Alexandra hospital, where she is recovering from a 10-inch laceration on her left hip sustained when she was struck by a car which has not yet been located while cycling west on 104 Avenue between 112 and 118 streets a few minutes after 10 p.m.

SHAKES UP
Fred Loughlin, of 1257 121 street, received a severe head injury when he was struck by a car which has not yet been located while cycling west on 104 Avenue between 112 and 118 streets a few minutes after 10 p.m.

Police said that the car which struck Loughlin did not stop, but the accident was witnessed by J. Hollingsworth, 18411 122 street, who told police the license number of the auto was 94-309. This auto was registered in British Columbia.

Constable R. B. V. said a 1935 McLaren sedan, B. 104, was driving him. He said he was questioned when 104 Avenue and the car had been seen by a witness. Police said they found evidence of the license number of the car.

Boyle has been arrested on charge of dangerous driving.

The auto which struck Mrs. Braden was travelling at excessive speed, police said, and the driver was hit and run.

Police say they have information which they expect will lead to the early arrest of the driver.

QUEBEC ASKS NEUTRALITY IN PETITION

Canadian Participation In Any European War Is Opposed

OTTAWA, Sept. 9.—A petition from French-speaking citizens of Quebec province opposing Canadian participation in any European war was laid on the table of the House of Commons Friday without comment by Maxime Raymond, Lib. House Leader.

Signed variously in pencil and ink, the petition, consisting of four brown paper parcels, was deposited with the clerk of the House. Mr. Raymond said it was signed by "thousands of citizens."

The official translation of the petition's text follows:

We, the undersigned, citizens of Quebec province, declare ourselves categorically opposed to any participation in a European war and declare in consequence to be hostile to the Canadian parliament. We demand by these means of the government and members of the parliament of Quebec in the House of Commons that, their franchise, by their vote at the extraordinary session of the Canadian parliament, which has been called to decide on this important question, the undersigned citizens of Quebec be refused the right to vote. This is that there is a special and explicit demand that the government not represent a demand of Quebec we ask full and entire execution.

We refuse to sacrifice our most vital interests to the petty interests and exigencies of international high finance and the manufacturers of armaments. We demand that the tragic adventure of 1914-18 be repeated instead of Canada being a party to it. Those who govern us have not the right to engage Canada in a European war when the Canadian people are not asked to do so.

The failure of the Canadian government to carry out its duty to the people of Quebec is a disgrace. We demand that the Canadian government be forced to carry out its duty to the people of Quebec. We demand that the Canadian government be forced to carry out its duty to the people of Quebec.

PATS WIN SOFTBALL CROWN

TRIUMPH 12-7 OVER ORANGE CRUSH TEAM

End Six-Year Hunt for Elusive Alberta Championship

Army and Navy Pats captured provincial senior girls' softball crown last night at Boyle street, successfully ending a six-year hunt for the elusive Alberta title. Pats won their second triumph over the Orange Crush, winning by a 12-7 score in the fourth and final game of a best-of-five series.

As the teams swung into last night's crucial clash, each had won one game and tied one. With the stakes high both squads hit a merry pace at the bat and the game developed into a heavy hitting affair. Not only did the batters club for safe singles, they belted the ball for many extra bases and both pitchers took a heavy drubbing.

Pats were cast on their game. They took advantage of every break while the Crush girls experienced poorer breaks, especially on the pathways where Crush runners were consistently tagged.

Pats took a winning lead as they registered eight runs in the first three frames as against two for the Crush squad. The Crushers jumped to within three runs of the Pats in the fourth frame but the winners closed out with much strength.

Winner Gailen led Pats batters with a single, a double and a triple while Vic Ewasuk closed a round tripper.

Maudie Hall led the Crush team with two singles and a triple while Dora Marianne got two singles and a double.

NO BEES NEED APPLY

As the bees buzz busily from bloom to bloom, they carry the pollen which makes the seeds fertile. But tobacco flowers have no need for bees; they do their own pollination. Which is fortunate for the Burbanks of tobacco culture, for they can tie a flowering head in a bag without condemning it to perpetual spinsterhood and so found a blue-blooded tobacco family without fear that a busy bee will mix the breed.

Since Columbus discovered the tobacco plant, hundreds of varieties have been developed, each with leaves having their own particular qualities of size, texture, flavour and fragrance. Turkish leaves, for instance, will lie in a baby's hand while a leaf of Burley would almost choke the baby.

Soil and climate do curious things to tobacco which is one of the world's most finicky plants. From the seed, which is the smallest sold commercially, to the cigarette—in growing, harvesting, and curing—tobacco must be handled as delicately as a royal infant. Your favourite Imperial brand never varies in fragrance and flavour. This is because the Company constantly keeps an adequate stock of many varieties maturing for years in storage ready for blending by experts who have spent years in mastering the art.

SILVER FIZZ
London Dry Gin

1.00
15 oz. ....
25 oz. ....

THIS sounds like an exaggeration—but it's not! The document containing this formula for London Dry Gin is locked away in our vault and only one man in the organization (William Strang), famous gin distiller from London, England) knows what's in it. This generations-old formula has made world-famous the "London Dry" type of gin—and now it is used to make the UDL brand of London Dry Gin, "SILVER FIZZ."

BUT THAT'S NOT ALL! To get the best out of this famous formula, crystal-clear, non-alkaline water is essential. Fortunately, Vancouver is abundantly supplied in this respect.

These are the reasons why UDL London Dry Gins are "Famed Around the World."
